STATE NEWS.

The schedule of the South Carolina Railroad has been changed, and trains now leave Columbia at half-past four o'clock a. m.

The Darlington Southern records the murder of Mr. James Keith, of Timmonsville, in that District. The deceased was returning early in the morning from the house of a sick friend, when the firing of a cap on the side of the road discovered to him a negro with whom he had been on bad terms attempting to shoot him. Mr. Keith drew his pistol and shot his assailant three times; but the negro escaped, and getting ahead, again rushed out from the woods and killed him instantly. The murderer was arrested under warrant from a magistrate, but it is thought he will not live.

Three boys, about twelve years old, have been committed to jail in Marlboro', charged with assault and battery upon a man! They must have been plucky boys.

The Abbeville Press announces the death of Mr. A. A. Williams, a well known and estimable merchant of that village.

The Laurensville Herald states that the gin-house and cotton press of Wm. McGowan, Jr., were destroyed by fire on the night of the 23d ult. Cotton, wheat, peas, rye and tobacco are included in the loss. It was the work of an incendiary.

The Cheraw Advertiser says that an inquest was held in that place on the 29th ult., over the body of Mary, a freedwoman, who "came to her death from sickness, want of medical attention, and destitution." This is a striking illustration of the operations of the Bureau.

The Florence Gazette tells of a robbery in that place by a freedman, who entered the store of Jerome P. Chase & Co., took the money drawer, and appropriated its contents. He was detected by means of money being identified, and was arrested by a Northern man planting in that vicinity, taken into custody by a number of respectable freedmen, who administered twenty-five lashes and banished him from the town.

The Edgefield Advertiser bears extremely gloomy accounts of the corn and cotton prospects, from various, distant and opposite parts of the District.

The Marion Crescent states that the cotton crop is promising in that District, and that the young state corn will do well, as the recent rains are in time to save it.

The Greenville Mountaineer learns that all the moveable property at the State Works, consisting of machinery, materials, tools, &c., are ordered to be sold at public auction on the 17th October next. The Mountaineer also states that on the 28th ult., a body of freedmen, about thirty in number, having families with them, took their departure from Greenville to work on a plantation in Florida. Others will follow.

The Greenville Enterprise says that the late rains have been general throughout the District, and although very late to do much good, yet great benefit will result. A mass meeting of the citizens of Greenville was to be held on Monday last, to ratify the action of the late National Union Convention. Gov. Perry was expected to address the meeting.

The Charleston papers of Monday announce the sudden death of the Hon. J. Harleston Read, in that city, on Friday night last, of disease of the heart. He has been for many years a representative in the State Legislature from Georgetown District, and was on his way to attend the extra session when the fell destroyer met him and ended his long career of usefulness and honor.

The Charleston Courier learns from the Washington papers that Prof. F. W. Thomas, of Maryland, died recently in the last named city, aged fifty-six years. The deceased was connected with the South Carolinian last fall, and displayed an unusual ability and force in his writings.

The Sumter News characterizes the Soldiers' Association of this District as "eminently proper and praiseworthy," and urges the formation of similar organizations throughout the State. The movement has been generally received with favor from our brethren of the press, and other Districts are taking steps towards similar action. Anderson having led off in this matter, we trust that she will retain the post of honor by assiduous attention to the duties imposed of collecting the names of deceased soldiers and enrolling the living representatives of the "lost cause."

The Pickens Courier says that on the 25th ult., near the Conners bridge, on the road from Pendleton to Fair Play, Mr. Elias H. Cleveland and others, met an unknown person, supposed to be a negro, on horseback. The party hailed, and the man jumped from the horse and made his way into the woods. A dark bay mare, with several white spots upon her, was taken possession of, and may now be found at Mrs. Mary Cleveland's, near Snow Creek Post Office, in that District.

COTTON PROSPECTS IN THE SOUTH.—The Mississippi Daily Clarion has been making an estimate of the probable number of bales of cotton that will be yielded by the Southern States for the present year. With the statistics contained in the report of the Cotton Growing Association of Jackson before it, it places the cotton yield in the South for 1866, at not more than 1,700,000 bales. The report upon which it bases its deductions contains data furnished by planters of a number of counties in Mississippi. From their statements it appears that 823 planters, who in 1866 employed 7,624 hands, cultivating 84,311 acres in cotton, and raising 46,681 bales, the present year employ 3,495 hands, and have only 32,222 acres of cotton planted. The Clarion applies the same reasoning to the other Southern States that it does to Mississippi, with the above result as to the amount of cotton that will be yielded this year.

The cotton crop of Mississippi, in 1866, amounted to 1,200,000 bales. Should the estimate of 1,700,000 bales for the year 1866 be correct, the great loss in the production of this staple throughout the South may be understood when we consider that the whole crop in that section for this year will be barely greater than that of a single State six years ago. The manufacturing North, in view of these figures, will be allowed a fair idea of the blessings that flow from the freedmen system, backed as it is by the negro bureau and its agents, and will more readily comprehend, in the lightening of its pockets, the great and damaging revolution in the labor system of the South.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE HUNGRY.
The New York Journal of Commerce, of Monday, the 20th instant, publishes the following, which will give our readers some idea of the inexhaustible fertility of the Western country:
Within six weeks, that is to say by the first of October, will be harvested one of the largest corn crops ever produced in the United States. Nothing can look more luxuriant than the fields of growing corn that cover thousands of acres in the valleys of the Ohio and the Missouri rivers, where one-half of the entire crop in the United States is produced. A writer in one of the Western papers calculates that, as a bushel of corn contains sixty solid pounds of grain, the crop of the current year, even if it should not exceed 80,000,000 bushels, will amount to four thousand eight hundred million (4,800,000,000) pounds of grain, besides an equal weight in fodder. The value to the country of such an aggregate of agricultural wealth, springing from a single crop, is not easily conceived. Though wheat realizes a higher price per bushel in the market, its positive value, as a life-sustaining product, is much inferior to that of maize, since the former averages but little more than one-third as much to the acre in the quantity grown. The statistics of the production of corn in the United States for the last twenty-five years are as follows, viz:

	Bushels.
In 1840, total crop,	377,531,875
In 1850, total crop,	592,671,104
In 1860, total crop,	830,451,707
In 1866, total crop, (estimated,)	1,039,000,000

The writer, whose calculations we have noticed, remarks upon this showing as follows: "The increase being at the rate of four per cent per annum, the aggregate crop of 1866 will be over one thousand millions of bushels! Estimate this at sixty cents per bushel, and conceive, if you can, the feeding power of this enormous quantity of Indian corn."

No wonder that the farmers in the West exult in the prospects afforded by their luxuriant fields. They have surely been disappointed, as no staple of agriculture seems so adapted to resist the changes of our climate. Taking the last twenty years together, the average yield per acre in the "Buckeye State" is not far from thirty-three bushels. Corn is a commodity which should not be despised.

The Columbia Phoenix of Tuesday announces the arrival of Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, commandant of this Department, in that city the evening previous. He will probably remain in Columbia during the session.

PARTNERSHIP NOTICE.

TO THE PUBLIC.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undersigned have formed a partnership in the mercantile business at Anderson C. H. and the village of Pendleton, at both of which places they propose to keep on hand a good assortment of Dry Goods, Groceries, Hardware, Hats, Boots and Shoes, Crockery, Saddlery, Iron, Nails and Castings, and all other articles of merchandise usually called for in the up-country. Our store at Anderson C. H., at present, will be No. 7 Granite Row, occupied by Sharpe & Fant, and at Pendleton, by "Fant & Co.," where we shall be glad to meet any of our old friends and customers, and all others who will favor us with a call.

In making this announcement of partnership, we deem it proper to say, that it goes into effect on the 10th day of September, 1866, after which time we POSITIVELY DECLINE AND REFUSE TO SELL ANY PERSON GOODS ON A CREDIT, NO MATTER WHO, and we so decline on account of good and valid reasons. We were pecuniarily able to sell them on time, as in days gone by, it would afford us pleasure to accommodate the people; but we are not, and hope no one will ask credit from us. We propose to sell goods for CASH and COUNTRY PRODUCE, and feel confident that we will make it to the interest of the people to patronize us, seeing that we are willing to accept smaller profits than those who sell on a credit can afford to take. We, therefore, earnestly invite an examination of our prices and stock before purchasing elsewhere, promising, in good faith, to do what we say.
FANT, SHARPE & BLECKLEY.

N. B.—The partnership hitherto existing between the undersigned, will be dissolved by mutual consent, on the 10th September, 1866, and the business will be conducted as above indicated. All persons indebted to us are earnestly requested to make immediate payment, as we need the money, and wish the business closed up.
